Federal Tax Credit for Residential Homeowners

Cardinal Ventilation certifies that the solar attic fan product models listed below are defined as qualified "Solar Energy Systems/Photovoltaic Equipment" as prescribed under the Energy Improvement and Extension Act of 2008 and therefore qualify for federal tax credit incentives:

CV-2000	CV-2000-TFS	CV-2050	CV-2000-ULP	CV-XLP
CV-3000	CV-3000-TFS	CV-3050	CV-3000-ULP	CV-XLP PRO

Under the provisions of this act, homeowners are eligible to receive a federal tax credit on their qualified photovoltaic equipment, as well as any installation costs incurred. There is no cap on the amount which may be claimed through the tax credit.

Per federal requirements, the above listed products must have been installed on either an existing home or new construction residential home per manufacturer's installation instructions and must meet all applicable local fire and electrical code requirements. Products installed on rental properties do not qualify for tax credits. Taxpayers must retain a copy of this certification statement for their records, but are not required to submit a copy with their federal tax return. This certification statement is valid for Cardinal Ventilation products placed in service on January 1, 2009 through December 31, 2021.

Disclaimer: While accurate at the time of issue, Cardinal Ventilation makes no warranty concerning the continued accuracy of the information presented herein, nor to the qualification of the above listed products for federal tax credits at the time of filing should federal laws change. Cardinal Ventilation is not responsible or liable for denied tax credit claims due to changes in qualification requirements or applicable law. Taxpayers should consult with their CPA or local tax professional on any questions regarding applicable tax law or for further clarification regarding the information contained in this certification document. Cardinal Ventilation is not certified to offer tax advice and explicitly makes no representation of the information contained in this document to be either legal or tax advice to the consumer.
